

Library Director's Report
July 2017

Matthew Hennessy, our new Technology Manager, and Computer View, Incorporated have been working on improving our wireless access by relocating and mounting our wireless access points. The wireless access points were all located above our ceiling panels, which impaired their effectiveness. For example, the access point serving the meeting room was located in the children's department study room, above the ceiling on top of a beam. It has been relocated and mounted inside the meeting room. We should see improved performance for all of our wireless service due to this project.

Our Summer Reading Program finale, with free ice cream and a special appearance by Scoopy, the Culver's mascot, was a popular event, with attendance of 250. Staff and patrons had a great time. Scoopy had trouble getting through the door of my office for his costume change, so staff members had to help squish his head down while he walked through the door so he would fit.
